Proper Handling of Readybuilt Fireplaces

Rear view of fireplace crated.

Mantel top crated.

Front view of fireplace crated.

CRATED UP-SIDE DOWN

All READYBUILT fireplaces are carefully crated in substantial wood crates of first-class lumber, packed and padded with excelsior and excelsior pads. Heavy wood supports are used to securely brace the crate as well as the fireplace. The fireplace is crated up-side down so that most of the weight is at the bottom of crate. Lining is packed inside the fireplace and Hearth in back of Lining.

HANDLE CRATE UPRIGHT

The crate should at all times be handled in an upright position. The top of each crate is plainly marked, and crate labeled to "Keep top of crate up" at all times. The crate should never be "rolled over" and under no circumstances should the crate be knocked over.

CAREFUL HANDLING

Fireplaces should be carefully and properly handled at all times. Since they are fragile, when subjected to rough and careless handling, there is possibility of breakage and damage.

INSPECT BEFORE ACCEPTING

All shipments should be carefully inspected at the freight station for damage or breakage in transit, and in case of damage, have the local freight agent make proper notation on freight bill and promptly file claim against carrier. All fireplaces are delivered to carriers in good condition, and our responsibility for shipment then ceases.

LAY FACE DOWN

After the crated fireplace is carried into the room where the fireplace is to be installed, lay the crate with fireplace face down carefully. Knock the crate apart, being careful not to damage fireplace, remove Hearth and Lining and then set up fireplace.

Three men can ordinarily handle a fireplace.

Readybuilt Installation Instructions

To install a READYBUILT fireplace the first step is to cut baseboard the exact width of fireplace at the place where fireplace is to be installed, so that fireplace can be set flush against the wall. Place the Lining against the wall in center of space where fireplace is to be installed. Butter the edges of Lining with cement mortar as shown in Figure No. 2.

Drive brick hooks or heavy screw hooks into wall at places as illustrated in Figure No. 5. Place fireplace in position tight against the wall as shown in Figures No. 3 and No. 5.

Attach a heavy piece of galvanized wire to the brick hooks or screw hooks in the wall and to the turnbuckles which are furnished inside all READYBUILT fireplaces. Tighten turnbuckles so that fireplace is held rigidly in place, as shown in Figures No. 4 and No. 5.

The Hearth is next set in its proper place on the floor as shown in Figure No. 5. The mortar joints between Lining and fireplace should be pointed up neatly, and the space between Hearth and fireplace should also be filled with cement mortar.

On all late models of READYBUILTS the bottom of fireplace and also Lining is recessed  $\frac{3}{16}$  of an inch so that Hearth fits neatly in place, making a concealed joint which eliminates the necessity of cement mortar.

The Mantel Top should next be set properly on top of fireplace.

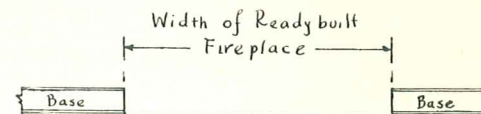

Suitable beveled Hearth moulding, the thickness of the Hearth,  $\frac{3}{4}$  inch, and preferably  $1\frac{3}{4}$  inch wide, should be installed around Hearth and fireplace.

The READYBUILT Fireplace is now completely installed for use in connection with Gas or Electric Logs or Grates.

FOR WOOD OR COAL BURNING FIREPLACES

READYBUILT fireplaces are also adaptable for wood or coal burning purposes. A number of READYBUILTS have been installed in this fashion by discriminating builders and homeowners, where character of design and harmonious blendings of colors are desired.

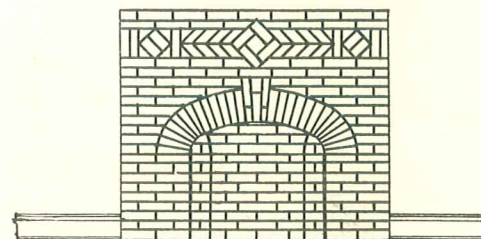

It is necessary, of course, that a proper chimney be erected and the opening of fireplace be constructed of fire brick. Install dome damper and make necessary brick connections to chimney. The READYBUILT facing is then set and fastened securely in place. The hearth should be layed of quarry tile or brick. READYBUILT Linings and Hearths are not used for wood or coal burning installations, and proportionate allowances are made when omitted. (See schedule of prices of Linings and Hearths.)
